- Damaged relationships with family, friends, or colleagues

Replace negative thoughts with constructive ones: Instead of "This is unbearable," think "I can handle this calmly." Remind yourself of past successes in managing anger.

5. Exercise Regularly

Physical activity releases pent-up energy and reduces stress. Aim for at least 30 minutes most days:

Express your feelings assertively but respectfully:

- Use "I" statements (e.g., "I feel upset when...")

8. Seek Support

Talking to friends, family, or mental health professionals can provide relief and guidance. Joining support groups or anger management classes can also be beneficial.

Step 5: Express Anger Constructively Healthy expression over suppression Once anger is managed internally, the focus shifts to expressing it in a way that is respectful and constructive. Guidelines for Expression: Use "I" statements: Focus on feelings and needs rather than blame. Maintain calm tone and non-threatening body language. Choose appropriate times and settings for discussion. Be assertive, not aggressive. Sample Statement: "I feel upset when meetings start late because I value punctuality and want to contribute effectively." Benefits: Reduces resentment and misunderstandings.
