The city's strategic location and fertile lands made it an ideal site for royal palaces and military installations. The most iconic figure associated with Potsdam's history is Frederick the Great (Frederick II), who transformed the city into a cultural and intellectual hub. Under his reign, Potsdam saw the construction of the famous Sanssouci Palace, a masterpiece of Rococo architecture that remains one of the city's most recognizable landmarks.

World War II and Cold War Era Like much of Germany, Potsdam's history was dramatically shaped by the upheavals of the 20th century. The city was heavily affected during World War II, with significant destruction from Allied bombing campaigns. Following the war, Potsdam became part of East Germany, and its landscape was marked by the division of the city and the construction of the Berlin Wall nearby. The Potsdam Conference of 1945, attended by Winston Churchill, Harry Truman, and Joseph Stalin, was held in the Cecilienhof Palace, symbolizing the city's pivotal role in shaping post-war Europe. Today, the conference site stands as a museum and historical monument, reminding visitors of the city's diplomatic significance.
